Allen Murry - 1-13-09 Current Events

Research Ties Human Acts to Harmful Rates of Species Evolution - NY Times 1-13-09. Human actions have increased evolution in some species - many in fish. Fish are usually taken large. This has sellected for smaller size + younger breeding age for many species. Canadian Big horn sheep have also dropped in size - natural predators usually take young, small or old sick prey - Some scientists argued against these conclusions -

Currevent card example